TURO FAMILY CHIROPRACTIC

CORRECTING SPINES SINCE 2011

NOT JUST THE SAME OLD ADJUSTMENT!

Recent studies have found that more than 10% of Americans suffer from neck pain at any given time. Fortunately, most chiropractic procedures address the cause of the majority of neck problems, not simply the symptoms.

“As a dentist, hunching over patients all day, my neck gets itself into quite a mess sometimes. I have seen many Chiropractors over the many years of my career. Most helped short term, but then my issues would come back. None have ever suggested or got me on an actual program to help me long term. Dr. Dan has and I see the results, and feel them too. I feel when he treats me, he is really in tune with what I need and how to help me. Every visit is a little different, not just the same old adjustment. He really bases my care on what I need when I see him. I really appreciate that. The x-rays and the thermal scans are scientific measurements of my progress and as a doctor myself, I appreciate that too. I highly recommend Dr. Dan and his team.” - Leslie

TECHNOLOGY FOR THE WIN

X-rays are used initially to measure the loss of normal spinal alignment and then monitor the percentage of spinal correction achieved throughout care. They are also a visual way to track progress while under care. Below are Leslie's before (left) and after (right) X-ray images.

In less than two months under care, the curve of Leslie's spine is returning and she is feeling great!
